Behind Enemy Lines

The story of The SOE in Action in The Second World War

With Dr Mark Baldwin

In 1940 Churchill created the Special Operations Executive to co-ordinate undercover operations in occupied countries, and in particular, to set Europe ablaze. In its six-year life, SOE trained over 9,000 agents, who operated not only in 19 European countries, but also further afield in the Far East and Africa.

SOE had some spectacular successes, and some failures, but earned tremendous loyalty from its agents, men and women, many of whom lost their lives while on operations, or subsequently at the hands of the enemy.

For many years, the activities of SOE remained in the shadows but recent years have seen the release of much fresh information. In this show Dr Mark Baldwin highlights some striking achievements by women agents; famous names such as Odette Sansom and Violette Szabo.

He explores the origins and aims of the SOE and explains some of the specialised equipment developed to assist these agents.

October 29th Saturday 7.30 pm "The Turn of the Screw" by Henry James

Presented by Blue Aces Theatre in association with Helmsley Arts Centre.

Left in sole charge of a boy and girl on a lonely country estate, a young Governess comes to believe that the ghosts of two dead servants have hideous designs upon the children. If she's right, they are all in grave danger, if she's wrong, she herself might be driving the children to the edge of insanity. But despite their apparent innocence, Miles and Flora know more than they're telling...

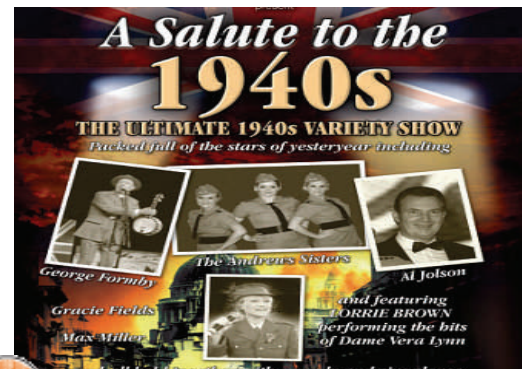

Based on the classic ghost story by Henry James, this adaptation provides genuine chills, the tension increasing with every twist in the plot...or "turn of the screw". Not suitable for young children

The Winter Dance Party Tour—A Tribute to Buddy Holly

On January 23rd 1959 Buddy Holly, The Big Bopper, Ritchie Valens and Dion and the Belmonts embarked on ‘The Winter Dance Party Tour’, a tour that meant they would play 24 cities in just 3 weeks. On February 2nd the tour bus developed heating problems so a plane was chartered for the next leg of the tour. A fateful decision as this plane carrying Holly, Valens and The Big Bopper crashed just outside Mason City. There were no survivors.

Winter Dance Party recreates that historic last tour of Buddy Holly. It stars Marc Robinson (‘Stars in Your Eyes’ and ‘The Buddy Holly Story’) as Buddy and features the country’s best Ritchie Valens, Big Bopper and Dion tribute artistes supported by The Counterfeit Crickets.

This superbly authentic show is packed full of rock n roll hits – 40 songs performed with the same raw energy that the original artistes thrilled their audiences with.
